The User grants back to LANS, the right to use any improvements made to the Software by the User for U.S. Government and noncommercial, research purposes. Any interest LANS has in redistributing Software improvements contributed by User for purposes other than non-commercial, research objectives, will be addressed under a separately negotiated agreement between User and LANS.

The software being licensed may be Export Controlled. It may not be distributed or used by individuals or entities prohibited from having access to the software package, pursuant to United States export control laws and regulations. An export control review and determination must be completed before LANS will provide access to the identified Software.
